

1. White and brown are not represented even once in the responses
2. Blue. a 0R rule simply guesses the most common answer all the time
3. Blue
4. 10% of humans are left handed. The quiz shows 4/40 which matches that rate
5. Responses should probably be made all lowercase during cleaning
6. Removing anything after a space (people left comments like this) would help. Might potentially allow poo in addition to pooh if being generous as well.
7. A feature
8. I don't believe it could be taken the wrong way, it was a pretty clear and short question
9. I don't believe the order was important
10. Hard to tell without a less discrete answer set, but there could be 2 modes at 7 and 8 hours for the answers which could be evidence of a mixture model
11. Not particularly, but there are many people who weren't willing to look for the correct answers to the pop culture questions
12. No deduplication should be necessary
13. No, everyone gave the same answer
14. Those subjects don't want to give their own phone number. The question should either be removed, or delete responses with duplicate phone numbers
15. A response of 7/8 might be converted to a date
16. Sunday
17. tuesday/thursday/sunday tie
18. B
19. B
20. A
21. This is better than the alternatives, which would be random answers, because it can't give wrong results.
22. A decent guess could be "B" given that most of them prefer chocolate chip or peanut butter cookies, and both of those tend to correlate with expecting a B
23. I do not see any particular differences in the two groups
24. People who are in no clubs are more likely to not be in any group activities than those who are in clubs